

Removal

The Court does not typically hold oral argument on motions to remand. If a motion to remand has not been filed and the Court has a concern regarding the propriety of removal, the Court will issue an order to show cause and give the parties an opportunity to address the issue.